A still life composition featuring three red radishes with green leafy tops, several silver forks, and two silver knives arranged on a light-colored, textured surface. The radishes are placed on the tines of the forks, and the cutlery is laid out in a scattered, artistic manner.

A single white plastic spoon is shown vertically against a black background. The spoon has a smooth, curved bowl at the top and a long, straight handle extending downwards. The lighting creates a soft shadow to the right of the spoon.

Cuchara café, 11,3 cm.
